Luxury footwear brand Marion Ayonote to open first store

Luxury footwear label Marion Ayonote will be opening its first physical store at the end of March at Connaught Village in London.

The luxury retail quarter is nestled just a few minutes from Hyde Park, and is home to a mix of award-winning restaurants, independent retailers and exclusive boutiques including Lucy Choi, ME+EM, Kokoro and The Place London for Men and Women.

Marion Ayonote will be joining on 24 March with a selection of luxury shoes for men and women, as well as accessories.

Founded in 2000 by Cordwainers graduate Marion Ayonote, the London-based brand offers innovative footwear pieced handcrafted in England and Italy. Its colourful hues, exotic materials and striking design have attracted stylists, celebrities and stylish women alike, and the brand boasts an international presence with stockists across the US, Europe, Japan, Hong Kong and Russia.
