Connaught Village has announced the arrival of luxury footwear and accessories London label Marion Ayonote, which will open its first ever store on 24 March at 9 Porchester Place in the heart of the Hyde Park Estate. Joining existing independent fashion boutiques including Lucy Choi, ME+EM, Kokoro and The Place London, Marion Ayonote's designs will strengthen the fashion offering in Connaught Village.

Founded in 2000, Marion Ayonote offers exclusive and innovative footwear for men and women, as well as accessories such as handbags, wallets and belts. The brand is known for its bold, bright and vertiginous heels made of exotic materials, all with a signature turquoise top piece.

"I am very much looking forward to joining Connaught Village - a shopping enclave dedicated to craftsmanship renowned for bespoke tailoring and couture footwear," says founder and designer Marion Ayonote.
